

RFP FAQs

Questions and Responses from July 20, 2018

1) Is a budget required?

No, a detailed budget is not required. The RFP indicates the budget expectations. You may provide information about your proposed budget in the financial section of the proposal. You may choose to attach a budget to help provide additional information.

2) Are there upfront costs?

These are reimbursement-based projects. As such, the project sponsor would request reimbursement on a monthly basis for the expenses that have been incurred.

3) Do you need to submit two separate proposals if you propose both the RRH and CE components of RFP 18-5?

You may either combine into one proposal or submit two separate proposals. If you respond in one proposal, you should make clear the differences in staff and service delivery for each component.
